Haunted Tales - A Mary O'Reilly Paranormal Mystery - Book Fifteen (Mary O'Reilly Series 15)

Synopsis

The death of a beloved fourth-grade teacher has haunted Andrew Tyler his entire life. Was it really an accidental death or was she murdered? And if it was only an accident, why did her ghost haunt the hallways of the old, abandoned school in Polo, Illinois? Andrew calls on Mary Oâ™Reilly to solve the mystery and catch a killer who is still on the loose in the small town.

Customer Reviews

First off, I want to say that I wish I would of reviewed this series earlier when I could of gave it a full 5 stars! I had been debating back and forth for awhile now on writing this review (especially since I first read this back in June!) but I really felt like I needed to say this. Also after looking at reviews from past books, I see I am not the only one with this opinion. Honestly, I love this series. When I first picked up the first book it was everything I never knew I wanted in a book. Paranormal mystery, fast paced twists and turns, lovable characters and touching endings. I look forward to each new installment and can hardly put them down once I start and I am still looking forward to the next in the series. That being said, I am starting to get to a point where it's hard to read. This has been getting worse in each book it seems. The problem is the "too perfect" characters. I loved all the friends and family in this book and was almost jealous that I didn't have someone like them to count on in the real world. Now it's to a point where I can barely get through a sentence without trying to hold back my eye roll or shaking my head. All the characters interaction anymore is love and hugging out any problem they may have (which besides the average bad guy every now and then, is something as small as a simple misunderstanding or saying something maybe a little too snarky). Nothing but good nature teasing and telling each other all the time how wonderful and loved they are. ESPECIALLY Mary. Mary is just too darn perfect, and anyone would do anything and everything to keep "our girl safe". It all is becoming just too perfect and mushy.
